Crackdown to stub out illegal smokes

By NEIL DOCKING

Sales to kids targeted in campaign

A major crackdown on rogue traders who sell cigarettes to children and young people in East Lancashire has been launched.

The Keep It Out campaign highlights the dangers of illegal tobacco and encourages communities to take action against those who sell it to young people.

Tobacco Free Futures has chosen to run the campaign in East Lancashire after the area was revealed as an illegal tobacco 'hotspot'.

Dr Sohail Bhatti, interim director of public health at NHS East Lancashire, backed the scheme, which started on Monday.

He said: "On average, over 500 people in East Lancashire die each year because of smoking-related diseases.

"It's worrying that East Lancashire is a hotspot for illegal tobacco.

"We need to work together in our communities to stop illegal cigarettes being sold to children so that they don't become one of these terrible statistics in the future."

New research has revealed that half of the tobacco bought by 14 to 15-year-olds is illegal, and one-in-four young smokers regularly gets offered illegal tobacco. Dealers target children and young people by selling single cigarettes, which makes it more affordable and gets them hooked so they come back for more.

Illegal tobacco is also linked to low-level and large-scale organised crime, so it helps fund drugs and weapon smuggling, child exploitation and money laundering.

Andrea Crossfield, of Tobacco Free Futures, said: "It doesn't matter if it's being sold in fag houses, shops, parks, or by neighbours, or family friends. Illegal tobacco makes it easier for children to get hooked."

Citizen In brief

Patients can have say on health care

Residents are being asked to have their say on health and social care in Blackburn with Darwen at a Patients' Voice Session, with Sir Bill Taylor, chairman of NHS Blackburn with Darwen.

The session will be held on Wednesday, November 2, from 4pm to 6pm, at Bentham Road Health Centre.

Paintings on show

An exhibition of watercolours, pastels and acrylic paintings, created by Hippings Vale artists, runs at Sunnyhurst Visitor Centre, in Darwen, until November 20.

Blood donor sessions

The ballroom at Poplar Working Men's Club, Wellington Street, Accrington, will host blood donor sessions next month.

The sessions, on Thursday, November 10, are from 1.15pm to 3.30pm, and from 5.15pm to 7.30pm.

Life-saver paramedic retires after 40 years

By EMMA CRUCES

A top paramedic who has a stack of 'thank-you' letters dating back almost 40 years is retiring.

Working for the ambulance service since 1973, Accrington man Geoff Evans worked his way up to ambulance liaison manager, working closely with Lancashire hospitals to ensure emergency vehicles were freed up as soon as possible.

In his time on the road however, the 60-year-old grandfather-of-four was renowned as the 'ambulance man' guaranteed to be sent to the most difficult, and unusual, jobs.

Geoff has delivered 17 babies in rapid response situations during his career, which began when he joined the service with a St John's Ambulance first aid certificate, working his way up to a paramedic qualification by 1993.

In the eighties, he was renowned for being sent to the most extreme emergencies which, in those days, were printed out on pink sheets. As a result he was given a 'pink sheet' award from colleagues because his exploits became so well known.

Geoff, who was based at Altham for 33 years, said: "The trainees always dreaded working with me because of the bad jobs I got.

"When someone was trapped in their car, or in machinery at work, they would need complicated treatment while being freed by the fire service. It wasn't as easy then as it is now to regulate pain relief and it was sometimes quite tense.

"I have lots of 'thank-you' letters from people I have helped and parents whose babies I have delivered. I have kept them over the years because it always meant so much to me.

"I have seen a lot of changes. Before seatbelts, drivers just used to go straight through the windscreen and children would become catapults around the vehicle. Health and safety rules now mean we see less dramatic workplace accidents. However, speed is just as much a problem today."

Friends, family and colleagues from North West Ambulance Service joined together to celebrate Geoff's retirement at the Canine Club, in Accrington.

Geoff was given £100 for a new walking coat and money for radio transmitting equipment.

Villagers call for action on 'rat-run'

By EMMA CRUCES

Villagers are brain- storming ways to close off their community to queue-jumping motorists.

Belthorn residents are increasingly frustrated with drivers using the road through the village to avoid traffic lights.

The community says Belthorn Road has been turned into a 'rat-run', with drivers from the Grane Road using the stretch to get to the Guide junction of the M65 since traffic lights were put in a few months ago.

Suggestions to make mornings easier for Belthorn folk have ranged from making the road one-way, blocking access at one end, or creating a 20mph speed limit.

The area's county councillor Peter Britcliffe said the village became gridlocked during rush hour. He said: "There was already a slight problem with congestion at the school during peak times.

"Now it is a thousand times worse because people are trying to avoid the traffic lights. I have had many emails and calls from people in the village who want the road blocking off so it can't be used as a short-cut. The problem with that is some people not from Belthorn use Belthorn School, before heading to work, so we have to think what will work best."

SHORT-CUT: Traffic at Belthorn

Resident Kathryn Sharpe said tailbacks through the village can be up to half-a-mile long. She said: "Much of the traffic appears to be people trying to avoid the congestion on the Grane Road.

"They show little concern there are children walking to school and often drive through at speeds well above the limit, endangering children's lives. I feel urgent action needs to be taken before someone is seriously hurt."

Emails to Coun Britcliffe describe the problem as the 'wacky races'.

County councillor for highways, Tim Ashton, said: "I am happy to look at suggestions that residents make about rat-runs. Preventing injuries and deaths on the roads is one of my priorities. If we can help, we will do."

BOOST: Sharon Crymble with Usman Ali, left, and fellow school pupils

Appeal fund nears £100k

By NEIL DOCKING

The Raise the Roof appeal has reached £97,000 thanks to two generous donations.

The campaign by our sister newspaper, the Lancashire Telegraph, aims to raise £125,000 to build a new roof over East Lancashire Hospice's inpatient unit in Park Lee Road, Blackburn.

Garfield Weston Foundation, a grant-giving fund for UK registered charities, has awarded the appeal £10,000.

And pupils from Jamiatul-Ilm Wal-Huda School, Blackburn, have collected £500 for the charity drive.

Talha Ahmed, a member of the management team of the boys' school, in Moss Street, said: "We found out about the hospice appeal through the Telegraph. We wanted to raise awareness within our students and they decided to collect the money because they wanted to make a little gesture towards the cause.

"We are delighted to be supporting an initiative that will definitely help the local community. We had a tour of the hospice and it helped us to have a better understanding of the wonderful services it provides."

The Garfield Weston Foundation was established in 1958 by Willard Garfield Weston, a Canadian businessman who moved to the UK with his family. He was the creator of Associated British Foods and the Foundation, giving the charity the donation of his family-owned company shares.

Sharon Crymble, East Lancs Hospice fundraising manager, said: "When the boys came they had a look around the hospice and they said they would like to do more for us.

"We're very grateful for their efforts in pushing us nearer to the £100,000 mark and pleased to have been awarded this grant."

It is vital that money used for the roof does not come out of funds allocated to patient care. The hospice has to raise £2.8m per year for its running costs.

To donate to the Raise the Roof appeal, call Sharon Crymble on 01254 733410.

Ribbon cut on new platform

By JESSICA CREE

Blackburn Railway Station's new-look platform has been unveiled.

The £1.7million renovation of platform four was officially opened by Blackburn MP Jack Straw, and is set to make travelling from the station a more comfortable experience.

The improvements have taken five months and include new lighting, passenger information screens, a public address system, and CCTV cameras.

And a new lift will make the platform more accessible to disabled passengers and those with luggage.

But the piece de resistance is the heated waiting room, where passengers can shelter from the elements.

"It gives such amazing resources for the customers and we are hoping it will encourage more passengers," said station manager Jane Murray.

"It is so bright and just gives a wow factor."

Blackburn with Darwen Council is aiming to increase the number of trains passing through Blackburn so there will be a train to Manchester every half-hour.

Blackburn with Darwen Mayor Karimeh Foster said this might even encourage businesses to open here.

Funding for the developments came from Access For All For Life, the National Stations Improvement Programme, and Blackburn with Darwen Council.

"This is a great day for rail passengers in Blackburn and for the town and the area as a whole," said Mr Straw.

MILESTONE: Margaret Wilson, of Darwen, celebrates her 100th birthday with her 'adopted niece' Carolyn Hargreaves

A Guinness to toast century

Margaret Wilson celebrated turning 100 on Saturday by having two glasses of Guinness and an early night.

The former weaver has lived at St James' home for the elderly, Darwen, since 2007. Sharon Witton, who has worked at the home for 22 years, said: "She had a couple of glasses of Guinness in the afternoon and was in bed for 4.30pm."

Mrs Wilson, who lived in the Chapels area of Darwen with her husband Dai, became a full-time resident after suffering a series of falls at home.

Ghostly tours plan

By CATHERINE PYE

One of Lancashire's most haunted houses is set to open its doors to ghost-hunters for the first time.

Judith Seery, of Turton Tower, has met with a team of expert psychics and mediums about running a series of overnight tours in November and December.

She said: "It's so scary at night. We have had a lot of ghostly incidents in here that have been seen by a range of visitors and staff. Once a woman on a tour was pushed in the face, and people say they have seen a lady on the front lawn.

"These sightings have been going on for about 40 years. Security guards who patrol at night say they have been over to speak to a woman against a fence, but as they've got closer, she disappears.

SPOOKY: Ghostly sightings have been reported at Turton Tower

"My 13-year-old son says he's also seen a ghostly figure flying across the sitting room and he was really shocked by it."

TV executives from the Most Haunted series were denied access last year over concerns that filming equipment would damage the grade II listed building. Now Blackburn with Darwen Council, which owns the property, will decide on permission once experts have been to establish safety procedures and insurance.

Mrs Seery said: "The tours, led by torchlight, will run from midnight to 3am, or 4am. They will be done in very small groups, so it will be a better atmosphere."

Parts of the tower date from 1420 when it was a simple pele tower, before being extended into a residence in the Tudor and early Stuart period.

More recently, it has been used as council offices, and since 1974 as a museum and historic house.

The ghost-hunting event is open to over-18s only. No date for the tours have yet been set. For more details call Mrs Seery on 07551 794283.

Xtremely happy with his album

Former painter and decorator, Southampton-born X Factor winner Matt Cardle, 28, has spent the last year working on his debut album Letters, which is out now.

YOU PERFORMED ON THE FIRST LIVE SHOW ON THIS YEAR'S X FACTOR. WAS THAT NERVE-WRACKING?

It was. I was on the Sunday show, and because everyone had been singing so well on the show the night before, there was extra pressure. It's a tough thing to do, and I was singing a song Gary Barlow wrote, in front of Gary Barlow. He said he enjoyed it, so that was good.

YOUR ALBUM IS OUT NOW. WAS IT ENJOYABLE RECORDING IT?

I loved every minute. You get the most amazing feeling when you're recording something you've written. It's one thing being happy with something yourself, but then when the label and manager and everyone in your team says they're happy too, it's an even greater feeling.

IT'S ALMOST A YEAR SINCE YOU WON THE SHOW. HAVE YOU BEEN WORKING SOLIDLY IN THAT TIME?

Yes, I haven't had a break at all. I've just been in the studio, co-writing the album. It went better than I could have hoped, and the pressure gave me an extra kick to work hard.

YOU WROTE SONGS WITH JAMES WALSH FROM STARSAILOR AND EG WHITE, WHO WORKED ON AMY WINEHOUSE'S FIRST ALBUM HOW WAS THAT?

I wrote with a few people, yeah, and I really clicked with Eg and James.

Laughter legends

They've been together as one of the country's most popular double acts for 48 years but, as Tommy Cannon tells JOHN ANSON, he and partner Bobby Ball have many years of laughter left in them

Leading comedians are now heading out on arena tours, which allow them to play in front of thousands of fans at a time.

But for one of the most enduring double acts, making the masses laugh is nothing new.

For 25 years ago, Cannon and Ball were breaking box office records all over the country with their own brand of family-friendly fun. And they continue to pull in the crowds today.

Tommy Cannon, the straight man of the partnership, said: "The arenas are certainly bigger than any theatres we have played, but when it comes to numbers we played 23 straight weeks at the Blackpool Opera House and sold out two shows a night with 6,400 people a night.

"To be honest, I don't think we'd like to play arenas as the audience can be so far away, they're really watching you on TV. We like that audience inter-action, to be able to see everyone laughing around the venue."

The duo will be making a trip to Burnley Mechanics on Friday – and they can't wait.

"It's like playing on our home ground," said Tommy. "The northern circuit is where we spent 18 years before we appeared on TV and became stars overnight. We always get a great reception from people in the area."

Cannon and Ball have been together longer than most married couples. "We've been together 48 years now," said Tommy, "but honestly we still really enjoy every show. I think we'll be doing it till we drop because we love it.

"We still get those butterflies before a show. If you don't get them, then I think it's a sign you should give up."

■ Cannon and Ball play Burnley Mechanics on Friday (box office 01282 664411).

We currently have the following vacancies:

Picture Desk Assistant

The successful candidate will be working on our busy Picture Desk, helping to source, process and archive images on three titles, the Lancashire Telegraph, the Citizen series and the Westmorland Gazette, together with a number of special supplements.

Enthusiastic and committed, you will have an excellent knowledge of Photoshop. Experience of Extensis archiving systems would be an advantage, although training will be given. You will also be required to support our online platforms.

Good inter-personal skills are also essential, as well as an exemplary telephone manner.

Deputy Features Editor (Maternity Cover)

The award-winning Lancashire Telegraph is looking for an experienced feature writer to provide maternity cover for our deputy features editor.

The successful applicant will be heavily involved in the running of a busy features department including originating ideas, generating copy and co-ordinating weekly entertainment and leisure supplements. The features team also produces a weekly women's page and is responsible for many commercial products and platforms.

We are looking for someone with lots of ideas, energy and enthusiasm to fit into our hard-working features team. If you are an experienced, qualified senior journalist with experience of working on a daily title we'd love to hear from you.

Experience in helping in the management of a features team would be an advantage. Applications for a job share may be considered.

Please write with a CV for an application form to Tracy Cunliffe, Editor's Secretary, Lancashire Telegraph, Newspaper House, High Street, Blackburn, Lancs, BB1 1HT, email tracy.cunliffe@lancashire.newsquest.co.uk or phone 01254 298299.

Closing date: Friday 4th November 2011

Newsquest (North West) Limited is committed to encouraging diversity throughout our workforce and welcomes applications from all sections of the community.
